

New ways in medicine – Bio-informative quantum medicine WHPRS Rating - 4

Bio-informative quantum medicine uses state-of-the-art methods and the knowledge of quantum physical laws to measure certain vibrations and so identify and treat blockages within the body and its energy field. We were able to win over Dr. Andreas Greimel (specialist in bio-informative quantum medicine) and Markus Buchhauser (TCM practitioner and technical frequency analyst) for diagnostic examinations and therapies at the 4-star superior Hotel Loipersdorf Spa & Conference. We spoke with Dr. Andreas Greimel and Dr. Franz Senekowitsch, who has spent more than 20 years studying and practicing bio-energetic regulatory medicine. Have fun with an short Interview and detailed Information of the bio-informative quantum medicine:

We at WHPRS cannot find any real valid or verified scientific explanation for how they energetically imprint an item

Dr. Greimel, your motto is: “Medicine must be a therapeutic agent.” In your work with the seriously ill, you have specialised in bio-informative quantum medicine, which, when used in combination with orthodox medicine, often has amazing results and an immediate effect.

Dr. Greimel: We need to look at the human system from many different angles and take many different approaches – holistically, as a whole. This will provide us with new possibilities and perspectives in the treatment of illnesses and their symptoms. The focus shouldn't be on rigid dogmas, but on patients and their wellbeing.

What can patients expect from a holistic diagnostic process?

Dr. Senekowitsch: Global adaptive responses are measured and depicted in real time. With its open structure, the human organism is mostly non-linear in its reaction of body, mind and soul – a fact which is too much for classical analytic procedures to deal with. What we need are methods that are capable of real-time measurements as well as the proper analysis algorithms.

You analyse the overall condition using bio-energetic frequency analysis?

Dr. Greimel: The human energy field is measured using non-invasive, biophysical measuring systems and compared with a standard. The aim is to recognise and harmonise problems and blockages in the energy and information flow. A sick organism can be brought back into balance by correcting disturbances in the body field. The information change processes strengthen the immune system, which is considered the self-healing capacity of the body.

You use heart rate variability measurements and measurements with B.E.A.T. (BioMonitor) to determine performance and stress resilience. Does that also work for risk factors for lifestyle illnesses or psychological and behavioural disorders?

Dr. Senekowitsch: Both systems are highly sensitive and capable of detecting imbalances and disturbances in the vegetative system, whereby the B.E.A.T. monitor can depict adaptive disturbances such as an incorrect stimulus response. It also plays an important role in the monitoring of the therapeutic progress. HRV measurements show the vegetative balance loss via the coupling loss between heart rate, breathing rate and blood pressure.

B.E.A.T.® bio-informative Feedback Training BFT

In BEAT® BFT the biological peculiarity of homeopathic preparations is used to track interactive failures of the regulatory control fields with "logging in" to specific locations in the inter-and intra-cellular communication. The affinity of the homeopathic remedy to certain biophysical communication nodes is determined by its frequency profile. Within the clinical empirically "proving symptoms", the biophysical properties of Bio.waves (homeopathic em spectrum) are correlated with the abnormalities of the disease but also the patients themselves.

The "healing reaction" of homeopathic remedies is caused by its specific feedback effect on the human as well as animal organisms.

Because of this special behavior of the homeopathic information spectra (bio | wave) it is possible to bring the "proper" bio information on the "right" communication site (stressor) of the organism with BEAT® BFT. With training repeating these feedback processes can reduce the communication disorders and help eliminate ideally.

For finding a suitable drug homeopathic doctors use for more than 200 years, the detailed homeopathic anamnesis. The result of this interview will be recorded and compared (repertorisation) with "Control symptoms" and so the drug with the greatest similarity profile is filtered out ...

The BEAT® BFT used for the fast and secure selection of the appropriate drug information a biofeedback system (BEAT Biomonitor).

The difference of this fully automatically running browser to the usual selection process is that the symptoms can not be compared with the records of different authors, but the reaction of the organism (coherence reaction BEATBiomonitor) on the stimulus information in real time is visible.

This consistency reactions are so clear that they can recognize the integrated expert system software without the help of the therapist. That means in the first time it is possible for the patient to get for his psycho-physical "incident" the most appropriate subtle information through the authentic reaction of his body (coherence - feedback) input. This extremely refined stimulus-response system allows a very sensitive regulation of steering in the direction of self-selected target organism from the state - homeostasis. Through the repetition of the stimulus therapy the process that supports the body in maintaining the desired equilibrium state, strengthened.

We at WHPRS cannot find any real valid or verified scientific explanation for how they energetically imprint an item

Selection of the appropriate bio-information spectra

The selection of the appropriate subtle bio-information is done with the full spectrum BEAT ® BFT - (category search including "classical" homeopathic remedies) and the BEAT ® BFT single spectrum tests(individual range search)

The presentation of the response to digital Biospektren is done by comparing the current regulation behavior (consistency feedback) to the reference measurement.

With a 1 second long test stimulus is possible to transmit digitized bio-(homeopathic remedies,nosodes) via magnetic fields on the patient. While this information transfer (EBIT -> extrinsic bio-information transfer) the patient's response to this therapy through a test of consistency determination BEAT ® BFT is automatically and continuously expert system assessed and recorded. This process can be observed in real time on the computer screen (monitor). By the automatic comparison of the current measurement with the reference measurement for the positive regulation of the behavior of the patient from the effects of individual Biospektren BEAT ® BFT system are identified and included in a response list.

We at WHPRS cannot find any real valid or verified scientific explanation for how they energetically imprint an item