

WHPR S Rating 0

HOME

INTRODUCTION

- Very little science, no validation, no verification

- Development of the Biopulsar-Reflexograph®
- Biopulsar-Reflexograph Technology
- What is Biopulsar-Reflexograph Technology?
- It's Easy to Use the Biopulsar
- The Sciences Behind the Biopulsar Biofeedback System
- The Sciences

Development of the Biopulsar-Reflexograph® [TOP]

The development of the Biopulsar-Reflexograph is based on over 17 years experience with thousands of biofeedback measurements, together with aura photography and aura consultations. For several years, the developer, Martina Gruber, worked with an international research team consisting of biofield researchers, therapists and sensitive life-energy investigators; many of whom attended esoteric and medical fairs and congresses worldwide, conducted biofeedback measurements and aura pictures on thousands of people and who evaluated these measurements. Through empirical studies and field experiments of different auras and using biofeedback devices, paired with "clear-sighted potential" and therapeutic knowledge, more and more insight in the constitutional peculiarities and structures of the multidimensional human energy body were attained. Devices from different manufacturers were used in conjunction with the research and so therefore the advantages and disadvantages of various technologies were also experienced.

In 1995, Martina Gruber established the first International Aura School. Since then she has taught many people (mainly professional therapists) worldwide in the perceiving, diagnosing and treatment of the human aura. Through the changed way of sight one can look deeply into the nature of sickness, fine substance matter healing, and one can experience energetic protection techniques (including preventative medicine). The International Aura School has made considerable contribution to the development of the Biopulsar. During many blind tests with seminar participants who would subjectively perceive and draw the aura, Ms. Gruber was able to make the software more precise until the subjective aura perception corresponded with the objective Biopulsar aura portrait to approximately 90% accuracy.

Finally in 1998, after many years of research and complicated technical development time, Martina was able to introduce the Aurastar 2000® biofeedback system to the market. The development of the Aurastar 2000 technology was done in cooperation with the Ayurvedic Medical Doctor and Engineer Dr. Balaji Tambe, the Aura-Seer Master Machine Builder Harald Markert, as well as several well-known electronic companies. Many therapists quickly responded to the Aurastar 2000 as an excellent diagnostic medium. Ms. Gruber perfected the aura sensor further for the medical market because of the wishes from various types of physicians; the result was the holistic biofeedback system called Biopulsar-Reflexograph.

Both the Aurastar and the Biopulsar biofeedback systems allow deep insight into the human psyche and the fine matter energy system. For many holistic practitioners worldwide this is an important component of their practice.

Fact: No other biofeedback system is as refined for its aura diagnostics as compared to the Biopulsar-Reflexograph system. This is mainly because most other aura imaging or bioenergetic devices do not have the in-depth biofield knowledge behind its technology, as does the Biopulsar!

Biopulsar-Reflexograph Technology [TOP]

The Biopulsar-Reflexograph is based on the latest computer technology combined with the scientific basis of the reflex-zone and meridian teachings. The hand sensor is a refined receiver for biomedical signals, which are taken from the reflex zones of the left hand's palm. The absorption of the signals is done by putting the hand on a set of gold plated sensor pegs furnished on an electronic circuit board. The sensors have an outstanding conducting capacity through the gold plating. Opposite to the Kirlian photography method that works with high frequencies, only low frequency currents are used on the Biopulsar for the measurements of the skin resistance. Through this method it is guaranteed that during the measuring, the body cannot be inflicted with any harmful or disturbing impulses or manipulated by single probe point measuring systems.

The Biopulsar-Reflexograph left hand sensor unit has three different hand sensor sizes (for small, medium and large hand sizes). The sensor data is made available through an IBM compatible PC (Windows) via the UBS port for the further processing of the software. All together there are 143 biomedical sensors that are scanned through 50 reflex zone measuring stations. The Biopulsar system surpasses the amount of measuring stations that most other biofeedback devices have, thereby reducing the risk of diagnostic errors (most other bioenergetic systems have very few measuring sensors such as single point probe acupuncture devices or simply designed wrist, ankle or head measuring bands).

Every biomedical sensor is an interface, which guides the measured biofeedback parameter every 500 milliseconds (ms) to the PC. The time factor can be freely set; however, 500 ms is recommended because it corresponds to real-time. The measured biofeedback is processed in a multi-functional Window's software and presented in numerous graphics and pictures. The software is simple to operate due to the intuitive user surface. Individual Window presentations can be arranged together for a quick reference.

The diagnostic foundation as well as the classification of illnesses, are different based on the different medical systems of the Eastern and Western world. Yet the Biopulsar's biofeedback and organ graphs are easy to interpret, because the energy flow of the organ is also the energetic language of the organ.

Every teaching system analyzes energy signatures of an organ; therefore, using the Biopulsar-Reflexograph® a diagnosis can easily be formed.

What is Biopulsar-Reflexograph Technology? [TOP]

The Biopulsar-Reflexograph system is a biofeedback tool that gives scientific information and objective interpretations for the bioenergetic information for 50 organs, the full body electromagnetic field and seven major energy centres. Accessing the "real-time" energetic information in a few different formats allows the practitioner to instantly analyze the patient on a holistic level-not just physically but mentally, emotionally and spiritually as well.

This new medicine technology generates complete psychological profiles, which fully reveals the role of a patient's colour-coded psychology in their health condition, and provides a detailed and technical level of information, which trained interpreters can use as a factor in their professional decisions as a practitioner.

The Biopulsar-Reflexograph system accurately identifies hundreds of colour possibilities, giving it the maximum possible usefulness for detailed and exact biofield analysis. The Biopulsar is the first biofeedback imaging technology that can create full colour bioenergy of the full human body electromagnetic energy field utilizing the information from 143 biomedical sensors. In turn, the system then displays the vitality of 50 body parts, which include 8 brain parameters. Formats illustrated on screen include organ graphs, colour analysis of the reflex zones, full & half body biofield pictures and chakra analysis. As well additional supporting software programs are now available.

The Biopulsar is not merely a device or product, it is a method or process, which was developed using proven sciences and integrated with an intricate system of calculations and formulae, and tested with medical knowledge, and intuitive and clairvoyant abilities (showing over 90% of the true full body aura). The system itself was created using proven biofeedback technology, including skin resistance measurements, and integrated into a computer system that performs a technical process to generate colour images and interpretations. The scientific principles of this process took years to accumulate through testing, and cannot be learned anywhere except by purchasing the Biopulsar-Reflexograph together with the initial 3-day intensive training. The special training includes biofield research information discovered as well as on-going support services (see Support Centre - Training Outline). Annual advanced training programs also available.

It's Easy to Use the Biopulsar [TOP]

The various formats make the Biopulsar-Reflexograph system easy to use. Once the system is connected to your computer, all you have to do is place the test subject's left hand on the hand sensor plate. It only takes a few minutes to acquire an accurate bioenergy scan from the reflex zones, which makes it ideal for organ, chakra and biofield response comparison when testing products or therapies. Information can be recorded and reviewed. Once the screen is frozen the user can switch format modes to access the various organ, colour energetic or chakra information. Biopulsar equipment is easily transported for versatility and convenience.

The Sciences Behind the Biopulsar Biofeedback System [TOP]

Through the use of specialized electrodes, the Biopulsar-Reflexograph handplate sensors scan various parts of the body through the reflex zones in the hand. The Biopulsar biofeedback technology monitors and measures physical states such as muscle tone, skin temperature, the amount of skin perspiration, brain wave activity and other physical conditions. Response from the Biopulsar's system is a visual display of information gathered from the electrodes translated into graph and colour wavelength formats.

This type of "feedback" provides the practitioner with a new, perceptible awareness of different body/mind processes, which extend beyond a human's "normal" five senses. In short, the Biopulsar gives both the practitioner and her/his patient information about the patient's physiological functions that was previously unavailable to her/his conscious mind. Seeing one's own response patterns allow a patient to see her/himself from a "new" perspective and partake in improving her/his own condition.

The Biopulsar has numerous uses in behavioral medicine and medical applications that unite the body and mind. The Biopulsar gives the user and client an instant reflection of the health of 49 body parts. Stresses (including fear) are easily seen by the under or over-activity of the graph line. Health practitioners agree that stress and tension held within the body contribute to many illnesses and being able to document the body's response patterns provides a method of insight. Using the Biopulsar facilitates the process of learning on a deeper level, compared to most biofeedback systems, by using the body knowledge together with colour, biofield and chakra information.

The role of the Biopulsar is to guide and help the technician to interpret information from the Biopulsar's biofeedback features. The Biopulsar can be applied in private practice, medical and holistic centres by psychologists, acupuncturists, chiropractors, naturopaths, etc. The Biopulsar technology is widely used to help detect many types of symptoms, illnesses and disorders, and can also be used to help people understand the power of the human mind and its interaction with the body. "Biopulsar" biofeedback opens the doors to connecting the potential power of the mind over physical ailments. By alleviating stresses and fears, one might be able to help the body's own defenses cope better with life changes.

Ayurvedic Medicine is one of the most ancient of all medical disciplines, dating back to Ancient India from which most Western medicine is derived. Ayurveda (ayur means 'life' or 'longevity' and veda 'knowledge' or 'science'), the science of life, is dated back to 1000 to 3000 BC. Currently, this school of medicine is responsible for the health care of 80-90% of the people of India today. It is said that Chinese and Japanese disciplines, arose from it. According to Ayurvedic medicine, at the level of the individual mind there are three types of activity, which correspond to active "Pitta" energy, passive "Kapha" energy and unifying "Vata" energy. These three energy types are modified by three processes: spiritual, mental and physical. The three energy "doshas" can be easily identified on the Biopulsar's organ graphs.

Bioenergetics is a method of studying and understanding the human personality in terms of the body and its energetic process. In bioenergetic theory, it is believed that the body and the mind function together and are functionally identical (meaning what happens in the mind reflects what is happening in the body and vice versa). The various graphic formats of the Biopulsar system quite simply can show the interactions of the mind and body in real-time.

Biofeedback is a process of giving immediate information to a subject about her/his bodily processes, which are normally unconscious. Biofeedback is used to help a person consciously control a bodily function believed to be involuntary, as heartbeat or blood pressure, by using an instrument (such as the Biopulsar) to monitor the function and changes in it.

Chinese Oriental Medicine (TOM) is the most widely used healing system in the world and is a complete medical system that combines herbs, massage, diet, exercise, moxabustions, cupping, gua sha along the Acupuncture to correct energy imbalances in the body. The theory describes the dualistic concept of yin and yang and that all matter is made of yin and yang including the human body. It is the ability of these opposites that interact and balance each other that creates the dynamic interplay that we call health. All diseases or conditions can be classified as either yin or yang in nature. This method of healing also works with the "chi" (vital energy) that circulates through the 12 meridian systems that relate to the internal organs. The Biopulsar's sensors are basically reading the pulse (chi) of the reflex zones, thereby an accurate TOM assessment can be made using the technology.

Neural-therapy is a process that integrates spiritual psychology with body/mind therapy to release negative cellular memory. It works on all levels (physical, mental, emotional and spiritual) to help release emotional and physical dysfunctions. Using the Biopulsar's ability to show energy in the colour language allows the practitioner to analyze and treat their patient's different energy levels thereby releasing cellular programs.

Reflexology / Zone Therapy utilizes the principle that there are reflex zones on the palms of the hands that represent or correspond to every major organ, gland and area of the body. Forms of reflexology are illustrated in Chinese, Japanese and Indian cultures dating back over 2,300 years ago. Reflexology is a form of diagnosing the subtle energy flows in relation to body parts. It is well known by modern medicine that the internal organs are represented on the surface of the body by areas of skin that share the same nerve supplies as these organs. The Biopulsar's handplate sensors correspond to the body's organs.

Science of Colour was originally used in Ancient Greece and in the Healing Temples of Light and Colour at Heliopolis in Ancient Egypt. The Indians and the Chinese have also held colour in high esteem for thousands of years. Colour theory is based on the fact that colour is a vibrational frequency that has a response factor on one's mental, emotional, physical and spiritual health. Also it is said that our body's organs emit a colour-coded vibration, which can then be influenced by colour. The body's colour connection is part of the Biopulsar's unique features.

The Biopulsar system is also based on knowledge from the following sciences:

- Hand Diagnosis
- Kinesiology
- Tomography
- Electromagnetic energy
- Biophotons

Nice stories but no real validity or verification of claims