LENYO CellCom

Through precise signal modulation and more than 553 automated BRT programs with sub-programs, the LENYO CellCom can address a wide range of imbalances and conditions, restore the body's natural balance and help to maintain overall wellness. The most sophisticated device in the LENYO suite of advanced BRT devices, the LENYO CellCom (LCC) is an endogenous BRT device that captures and selectively modulates the organism's electromagnetic field at the cellular level in order to help the transmission of the body's own inner communications and induce the natural healing process.

The LENYO CellCom features a Homeopathic Imprinter (HI) module. The HI module can transfer user-specific BRT signals – based on the body's own biofeedback – to portable, home-use, homeopathic remedies and carriers including magnetic polymers, aqueous tinctures, ointments, metal alloys, crystals, jewels and more.
